Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 19 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 19, line 2, "the barb" lacks antecedent basis within the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-5, 7, 10, 11, 13-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Methot. Methot discloses, Figs. 2-4, a joint cover system comprising a polyvinyl cover strip 15 having an attachment rib 41/42, a receiver strip 20 comprising a substantially hollow body with a slit 30 for receiving the attachment rib, an anchor rib 19/20/21. Barb of attachment rib is at 41. Groove on an interior surface for receiving the barb is at 25. The joint cover system covers a joint between a first body 17 and a second body, (pool wall or "bond beam").

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 6, 8, 9, and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Methot. Methot teaches formation of the receiver strip 20 can be aluminum or plastic, col. 3, lines 1-2 and col. 4, lines 28-29. Methot also recognizes that it is known for receiver strips to be formed of aluminum or polyvinyl chloride, col. 2, lines 43-44. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have formed the Methot receiver strip 20 of a polyvinyl chloride. Providing for multiple cover strips 15 around the pool structure, thus providing ease of handling, would have constituted a further obvious expedient in the art. With such multiple cover strips the Methot assembly would present at least two cover strips 15 or at least a "cover strip" and a "protective strip".

Claim 12 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Methot in view of either of Kelly or Osada.

Each of Kelly and Osada teach forming an interior surface of a pool wall of small stone or pebble finish. To have formed the pool wall of Methot as a pebble finish layer, thus providing a natural and aesthetically pleasing appearance, would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made as taught by either of Kelly and Osada.
